

About TAPE

The Texas Association of Partners in Education is a non profit membership association dedicated to providing support and expertise to businesses, schools, and community organizations as they build educational partnerships that enhance student success.

What is an Education Partnership?

Education Partnerships are cooperative relationships in which schools, families, community and faith-based organizations, government agencies and businesses work together to ensure that our youth grow and succeed in school and are prepared to enter the workforce. Partnerships among businesses, civic and community organizations are essential for school and student success.

Education Partnership Planning Forums: Sharing Insight—Building Alliances

The success of Texas' students is vital to ensuring our economic future as a leader in industry and technology. Today, almost all schools, community organizations, and businesses are seeking innovative, effective and sustainable ways to have a positive impact on the education system.

The Texas Association of Partners in Education is proud to announce its newest statewide programming effort geared at engaging all sectors in the planning and implementation of education partnerships: Education Partnership Planning Forums.

Our Partnership Planning Forums bring together school districts, higher education, community and civic organizations, Chambers of Commerce and businesses from around the State. The goals are to gather insight from attendees regarding building effective education partnerships, learn directly from each other, and hear from organizations that have "been there, done that."

Agenda:

10:30am-11:30am, John Spence, Director, Texas Center for Service-Learning will discuss how service-learning is being applied to connect classroom learning to real-world applications.

11:30am-12:30pm, Panel Presentation facilitated by Eddie McBride, President, Lubbock Chamber of Commerce. Panelists include:

- Martin Aguirre, WorkSource Solutions of the South Plains will share regional workforce statistics
- Jill Berset, South Plains Tech Prep will discuss tech prep programs throughout the region
- Bill Miller, will discuss partnership programs in Lubbock County

12:30pm-2:30pm, Partnership Planning Forum

Forum participants will:

- Discuss issues driving the implementation of new education partnerships, like workforce development, graduation and career/college pathways
- Network and share ideas
